Just as there are several types of cleaning jobs, there are several types of pressure washers to handle those jobs. No matter if you're just trying to clean your patio after a long winter or need to clean the entire exterior of your two-story home, these top-rated pressure washers will help you tackle those tasks. MORE FROM CONSUMERSEARCH.COM You can use a pressure washer to clean nearly anything outside in a fraction of the time it would take you otherwise. However, before you start dreaming about your next cleaning project, learn more about how to choose a unit, what you need and how to use a pressure washer. Types of Pressure Washers When you're shopping for pressure washers, you'll find two basic types: electric and gas. Electric pressure washers, which you power by plugging them into an outlet. That can limit where you use the pressure washer. Additionally, while they can be powerful, electric pressure washers are typically best for cleaning smaller items, including grills, patios and bicycles. People often like these types of pressure washers because they're quiet, lightweight, portable and low maintenance. Gas pressure washers require that you buy gas or oil to power the machine. However, that also gives you the freedom to go just about anywhere with it. Although gas pressure washers are heavier than electric ones, they usually have wheels to help you maneuver them. Additionally, they require regular maintenance, but they're more powerful and last longer than electric models. How Pressure Washers Work No matter whether you choose an electric or a gas-powered pressure washer, the machine works pretty much the same way. The motor or engine operates a pump. That pump pressurizes water from the hose up to 1,000 pounds or more before forcing it through the spray wand. The higher the pressure the washer puts out, the stronger its cleaning power. The pressure is measured in pounds per square inch (psi). While many of the smaller washers come with one adjustable nozzle that lets you switch from a single stream to a fan-shaped spray. Larger units may come with different nozzles, including some that rotate, create wider or narrower patterns and turbo-charge the stream. What Not to Pressure Wash Pressure washers are effective in removing flaking paint, stuck-on grime, mold, algae, mud and more. Using a pressure washer on surfaces like patios, decks, driveways, masonry, siding and brick is perfectly safe. However, some materials can't hold up to the powerful pressure. Examples include: Asphalt roofs: Using a pressure washer on your asphalt roof destroys it by removing the granules. Antique items: Very old furnishings, old decking and antique buildings could all have dry rot or soft spots that your pressure washer will likely damage. Stained wood: Pressure washing stained wood surfaces will remove the stain from the wood, requiring you to re-stain it after it dries. Tips for Pressure Washing Getting started is a matter of powering up the machine and hooking it up to your garden hose and tightening all the connections to prevent air from getting into the lines. Tips for using your pressure washer include: Wash vertical surfaces like siding from the bottom up, then rinse from the top down. Use the lowest pressure nozzle with the broadest spray pattern to avoid damaging the surface you're cleaning. Avoid spraying into outlets, vents or air conditioning units. Pressure Washer Troubleshooting Always keep your pressure washer repair manual after buying one. Not only will it offer helpful tips for operating it safely, but it also will give you information like the model number, which you might need to get pressure washer repair parts. It also helps to keep pressure washer spare parts around for small fixes. For example, if you're having trouble starting it, you might need to replace the spark plug or clear out the fuel tank to remove debris before refueling. In many instances, you might not need parts. Instead, you might need to check things out. For example, if your pressure washer is leaking, check the O-rings and water seals, but it might be as simple as loose fittings, which are the most common cause of leaks. If you're having pressure problems, make sure your garden hose is the right size and is free of any kinks or leaks. MORE FROM QUESTIONSANSWERED.NET
